

How to Develop Professionally from Inside Your Home

Professional development doesn't have to stop when you aren't actively interviewing, here are some proactive steps you can take in your downtime:

- Review your LinkedIn and Handshake profiles to make sure they are up-to-date and presenting you well
- Go through your closet and find pieces of professional clothing that you can wear to career fairs and interviews
- Reach out to people in your network for guidance or with questions
- Write your introduction for career fairs and answers to questions you could be asked in interviews
- Evaluate your career materials (ie resume and cover letters) to update them with your new experiences
